ONE of the biggest shams attempted recently is the alleged opposition to the prize fight to be "pulled off" in Cincinnati Friday night. Gov. Nash is making a grand-stand play, while several smaller potatoes in the city have been in their ear proclaiming that the fight shall not come off. The funny part of the affair is that the promoters of the fight have gone steadily along with preparations for the mill. That it will take place, there has never been any doubt, as such things are in keeping with the Queen City. If all our money was not wagered on the result of the fight, we would make a bet that four-fifths of the officers who have made such a fuss will be at the ring side, among the most enthusiastic spectators.

The dishing out of "honors" to those army officers with a political "pull" was resumed at Washington this week, and the program (prepared before the soldiers were ordered to storm Santiago,) is being carried out. Those politicians standing nearest the powers-that-be were given the highest honors, while those men who had given the best days of their life to the army, were politely handed a cold potato. An army officer without a political pull stands in the same attitude as would a clawless cat in perdition.

AT Paris, Ky., Monday night, a negro was taken from the county jail and hanged to a beam over the court house door. When juries begin to do their duty, and courts cease to grant all manner of delays on request of jack-leg lawyers, then it will not become necessary for the citizens to take the law into their own hands. Had Judge Lynch held hands off at Paris, the chances are that the negro would have gotten off with a short term in the penitentiary for one of the most dastardly crimes known.

On invitations to ladies' dinner parties, we frequently see the "subject for discussion" given in flaming letters. This may be the proper paper these days, but if the good women, bless'em, are to be limited to one subject and prohibited from talking about the neighbors, its safe to predict a short life for the new custom.

THE Winchester Democrat says when a man's wife is out of town for a while he soon begins to hunt up bakeshops. If he would stop with "bakeshops" the good lady would have cause for rejoicing. Its "tother kind of shops that most frequently catch hubby while "the boss" is away.

A Louisville jury has actually summed up enough nerve to say that a murderer must be hung for his crime. If some enterprising fellow would get a photograph of that remarkable twelve, he could dispose of copies at most any old price. Such things are scarce in Kentucky.

clerks take it for granted she wants a nail driven in her drink, and govern themselves accordingly.

A powerful engine can not run with a weak boiler, and we can't keep up the strain of an active life with a weak stomach; neither can we stop the human machine to make repairs. If the stomach cannot digest enough food to keep the body strong, such a preparation as Kodol Dyspepsia Cure should be used. It digests what you eat and it simply can't help but do you good.

OBITUARY.

The surprise and sorrow was equally great Wednesday morning when the sad news of the death of Mrs. Wm. Royston was announced. Mrs. Royston was formerly Miss Annie L. McKinney, of Stanford, for twenty-three years she has been indeed, and in truth, the helpmeet of her devoted, and now bereaved husband. She was a devout Christian woman, and a generous and noble friend, and owing to her charitable deeds, good influence, and cheerful disposition, her loss will be deeply felt by all who knew her, and we can say with the poet, "She showed how Divine a thing a woman may be made." She left a loving and faithful husband who provided for and cherished her in a manner that was never excelled by any, also three Christian daughters, who are perfect women nobly planned, "they were the pride and joy of their mother, and were raised in the nurture and admonition of the Lord." She was loved by many as was shown by the weeping throng that met around her grave. Appropriate and impressive services were held by Rev. Crawford, at his home, thence to the Lancaster Cemetery to await the resurrection morn. But we "sorrow not as those who have no hope," for "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord." F. H. D.

The handsome Valentine dinner at which Misses Allie and Bettie Anderson entertained was one of the most brilliant affairs of this week. It was a red and white dinner in appointments and decorations. The places were marked with red hearts pierced with gold arrows. At each plate was a red roll which contained a May Irvin cap worn by each guest. Red and white hearts formed a striking and novel color scheme during the dinner. The following were present: Mesdames J. F. Robinson, S. C. Denny, G. D. Robinson, K. F. Postle, Jerry Jessup, G. A. McRoberts, Wm. Cook, A. B. Price, G. B. Swinebroad, Victor Lear, Juliet Rogers, Misses Fannie West, Martha Elkin and Altie Marksbury.

The sick in the community are all reported much improved. We heard, a man say that not one out of ten families was without a case of sickness, and we believe he was correct in the assertion.

Scrofula

THE OFFSPRING OF HEREDITARY BLOOD TAINT.

Scrofula is but a modified form of Blood Poison and Consumption. The parent who is tainted by either will see in the child the same disease manifesting itself in the form of swollen glands of the neck and throat, catarrh, weak eyes, offensive sores and abscesses, and a tenacious white discharge—sure signs of Scrofula. There may be no external signs for a long time, for the disease develops slowly in some cases, but the poison is in the blood and will break out at the first favorable opportunity. S. S. S. cures this wasting, destructive disease by first purifying and building up the blood and invigorating and invigorating the whole system.

J. M. Seals, 115 Public Square, Nashville, Tenn., says: "I have seen many cases of scrofula on her forehead. From this wound the glands on the side of her face became swollen and bursted. Some of the best doctors here and elsewhere attended her without any success. We decided to try S. S. S. and a few bottles cured her entirely."

makes new and pure blood to nourish and strengthen the body, and is a positive and safe cure for Scrofula. It overcomes all forms of blood poison, whether inherited or acquired, and no remedy so thoroughly and effectively cleanses the blood. If you have any blood trouble, or your child has inherited some blood taint, take S. S. S. and get the blood in good condition and prevent the disease doing further damage.

FARM & GARDEN.

DURABLE HAY RACK.

Particularly Adapted to a Low Down Wagon, Especially When Made Very Nearly Flat.

The dull winter season is a good time to prepare for summer rush work. One of the jobs which should be done carefully, without hurry, is the making of a hay rack. The rack portrayed herewith is in one piece, bolted solidly together. This style is particularly adapted to a low down wagon or one with front wheels three feet two inches and hind wheels three and one-half feet in height. It can be made very nearly flat when used on this style of wagon. It can be made of any desired length or width, according to the fancy of the user. The side sills, a, for a low wagon can be made of two by six inches stuff or of two by eight inches for the common high wheel farm wagon. The four pieces, b, are of two by four by six feet long. The four pieces, c, are of one and one-quarter by four by 40 inches long. These are bolted through and also through the sills, longer ones, b, on top, shorter, or e, underneath. One bolt holds both pieces. This is done with all but the front piece that being elevated about six or eight inches on corner posts, d, of two by three-inch stuff which can be made with a long pin-like tenon which serves to hold the load on the corners. These posts are bolted securely to side sills. This elevation gives free action to front wheels while turning. Four pieces, e, one by eight inches make side projection each side of the rack. Four pieces, f, of five-eighth by eight inches, with probably double tenons on each end make the bow or arch over hind wheels.

Two standards, g, one and a quarter by four inches, cut tapering and bolted to side sills in such a manner as to fold down when not in use, serve to anchor the back end of load. Any kind of a device can be used on front end to hold the lines. A single post or two pieces fastened to side sills and inclining together toward top with two or three cross pieces framed in, will answer when binding on the load. A tight bottom can be placed within to save grain that shells while handling.—R. O. Logan, in Farm and Home.

ICE IS A NECESSITY.

The Farmer Who Has Once Put Up a Crop of It Will Do So Every Year Thereafter.

Although the storing of ice has been urged often, the subject is quite timely now, and the advice given to everyone to put up ice for next summer's use will not be out of place. The idea that ice is only a luxury is a "back number" with those who have had ice for several years; to them it has become a necessity. With its use the butter can be kept cold, the milk kept sweet, viands kept palatable from one meal to another, and the family can enjoy ice cream without purchasing it or without going miles perhaps to buy a chunk of ice. The idea of buying ice as cheaply as it can be put up is a mistaken one, and the calculation is being made to buy ice the coming summer simply means that we will do without it.

It is not essential to have a house built on purpose for the storing of ice. We once stored a block of ice eight feet square and about ten feet high, and after the block was finished we built a square of rails around it, putting straw in the cracks to hold the sawdust, placed a cover of boards over it, and the ice kept quite well.

In storing ice we always cut the blocks in size to fill the house to within a foot from the walls, and place in the same position as it is taken out of the water; this makes every layer quite level and it is much less labor when we set up on edge as some recommend, and it will keep fully as well. After each layer the joints should be filled with snow or pounded ice, or sawdust will do about as well. Tamp sawdust as solid as possible around the sides and over the top. Watch ice closely during the spring months for this is really the most critical time; if air passages are formed through the ice, the ice will melt very rapidly and by the time you wish to commence to use it, it may have melted away considerably.

When using ice remove the top layer entirely before taking off the second. Try putting up a quantity of ice this winter and see if you wish to do with it again.—Jacob Dickman, in Ohio Farmer.

Planting Seeds Too Close.
Seeds are sometimes planted too close together. Even wheat will give good results when but few seeds are used over a certain area. It is stated that in an experiment made, in which the plants were set out and allowed to multiply and again divided, a single grain produced 20,000 heads, containing 170,000 grains, which made 4% pecks. Of course such cultivation is hardly possible on an acre field, but the experiment shows that a grain of wheat will produce much more than may be supposed.

A Practical Little Wife.

Neighbor—You've got a lovely bedroom now with this new carpet. Just put it down, didn't you?
Hostess—Yes; just through.
Neighbor—I thought so, from the tracks scattered around the floor. You ought to pick them up before night, or your husband will be stepping on them.

Hostess—No, let them stay. My husband is a newspaper humorist, and every time he steps on one he'll think of some new joke about it. I hope he'll make enough out of them to pay for the carpet.—N. Y. Weekly.

Too Much.
"So your prima donna is going to deserve you?"
"Yes," answered the opera manager, sadly. "And perhaps it is all my fault. I spoke hastily."

"Did you reprove her?"
"No. I tried to be gay and comic. She said she was going out in her horseless carriage, and I told her that what she needed was a horse-less voice."—Washington Star.

A REGULAR GREENBACKER.

HOMEMADE HAY RACK.

Goose—What do you think of the money question?
Bull Frog—I'm a greenbacker.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

The Faithful Officer.
"When my time comes, I will die at my post."
Were the words the policeman said, And he told the truth, because you see, He died at the post of his bed. Harlem Life.

There Yet.
Bighter—Yes, Sir. I'm dealing in gilt-edged investment now.

Bitton—What are they?
Bighter—Gold mines. There's money in them.

Bitton—You're right. I lost a lot of my money in some of them.—Philadelphia Press.

In Colonial Days.
"And then tell me Rev. Ebenezer Softearth doth grow stranger in his preaching every day."

"Indeed?"

"Yes. He doth now avoy openly that witches should not be burned."—Puck.

Uncle Sam's Businesslike Way.
"I see we've just purchased a couple more Philippine islands from Spain."

"Well, that shows how Uncle Sam differs from most women."

"I don't see the connection."
They borrow trouble; he buys it outright."—Chicago Times-Herald.

That One Word.
Miss Hiculler—Yes, they say Mr. D'Auber is very clever. I think I shall have him to paint me.

Miss Peppery—Capital idea! If I were you, dear, I would let him do it hereafter.—Philadelphia Press.

Variety in Profusion.
"I can find no fault with the location of your house, Mrs. Spooner," said the departing boarder, "and the neatness of your table is something that I shall long remember with joy; but I can stand no longer the sameness of your bill of fare; a man must have some variety."

"Well, sir, it is your own fault that you have refused to partake of the variety," she snapped. "I am sure that no one could do more than I have done to make attractive hash."
